Papers should be prepared according to the latest edition of the MLA Handbook. Notes should not contain bibliographical information about the works you cite. Use parenthetical references (in the text), which should contain an abbreviated reference to works in a list of works cited; often a page number is sufficient. If not, the author’s last name is usually enough to identify a source. If you cite more than one work by an author, include the first word(s) of the title. For example: [...] as Barthes claimed (102); or (Plaisir 102-03); or (Barthes 122-23); or (Barthes, Plaisir 199-200). Avoid ibid. and op. cit.

Please submit your article via e-mail attachment. Although we use Microsoft Word, we can import almost all Mac and PC formats.

We need to be able to convert all files to the same format, so please observe the following conventions:

1. Use consistent spacing, whether double or single, for everything in your file, including notes and indented quotations.
2. Include an extra line (carriage return) before and after indented quotes.
3. Use two hyphens (--) or (—) to represent a dash; put a space before and after them.
4. Use only one space after all punctuation marks, including at the end of a sentence.
5. Do not put spaces before colons, semicolons, and other punctuation marks.
6. For ellipses, enclose 3 periods, without spaces between them, within square brackets [...]. Place periods before or after the bracketed three periods to indicate whether the omission includes a complete sentence, the end of a sentence, or the beginning of a sentence. If there are points de suspension in your own text or in the text you cite, do not put them within brackets.
7. Please respect this deviation from MLA style: Use “University Press” instead of “UP”.
8. Put an accent aigu on upper case E (É) and an accent grave on upper case A (À) if the letters would be accented in lower case.
9. Put your name and affiliation at the beginning of your essay, before the title.
10. After the title, include an abstract of approximately 100 words (2-5 sentences), in the language of your article. If your article is in French, include, if possible, an abstract (“un résumé”) in English in a separate file in your e-mail.

The deadline for receipt of completed essays for FLS 41 Odysseys is August 1, 2014. Feel free to expand your article beyond the length required to stay within the 20-minute limit for the oral version. But please don’t get carried away; try to make your paper no longer than 18 double-spaced pages, about 5000 words. If all goes well, we’ll have all proofs sent out before the end of the fall semester. Please be ready to return them within a week or two, so the volume can be published in a timely manner.
